PERSONS TALKED ABOUT

H. B. Marriott-Watson credits American fiction with having escaped from the austere bondage of W. D. Howells, and taken to itself the liberty to be as light, frivolous and sentimental as it pleases. "We have learned the lesson from England," he says; but abate men: English fiction has slumped badly since it set out to be giddy.

Hermann Bernstein, just home from a tour of European capitals in the interest of Zionism, reports the interesting fact that the deposed sultan's promise to Dr. Herzl of sympathy with the Zionist desire to come into control of Palestine, is now proving one of the most serious obstacles to Jewish hopes of aid from the Young Turks.

Molden Bledsoe, who is said to have been the last survivor of the Fremont expedition, was found drowned in a canal in Denver last week. He was over 91 years old, and just after he passed his 90th birthday he became an ashy driver, explaining to his friends, of whom he had many in Denver, that he couldn't live without work.

Mme. Curie, who since the death of her husband, has taken his place at the university of Paris, was recently elected a fellow of the Academy of Sciences at Cracow. In 1902 she received, together with her husband and the late Professor Becquerel, the Nobel prize for chemistry. "but," says the Paris correspondent of a German paper, "she has lost nothing of her enthusiasm."

Theodore Roosevelt, in working in to the heart of British East Africa, will find soon an Irish girl ruling over an estate of 175,000 acres. She is a daughter of the Earl of Enniskillen, and her marriage to Lord Delamere was a romance of the hunting field. Delamere was thrown from his horse and the young woman nursed him in a farmhouse. Soon they were married and Delamere took his bride to East Africa.

The Asherton and Gulf Railroad company, through Asher Richardson, president and general manager, has issued an official circular appointing Mrs. Asher Richardson assistant general superintendent of the line. This is no empty honor, as Mrs. Richardson has been performing the duties of the position for some time and her appointment is made merely to give her official standing with the company.

Ernest W. Roberts of Chelsea, has represented the Seventh district of Massachusetts in five or six congresses, yet it is only now the country learns that he is a skilled and pleasing performer on the guitar.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Hill of Chicago, who died in June in San Francisco, left $50,000 to the Harper Memorial library of the University of Chicago. Another bequest was $25,000 to establish a scholarship at Colgate university.

Rev. Dr. G. William Giboney, for 12 years pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Spokane, will become a circuit rider in southern Oregon, preaching in mining and lumber camps and establishing missions and Sunday schools.

Bliss Perry, author of "Walt Whitman," "The Amateur Spirit," sailed from New York last week to serve as American lecturer for the year 1909-10 at the Sorbonne and the provincial universities of France. He will return in August, 1910.

Miss Elizabeth J. Hauser has been under the Joseph Pelt fund at a salary of $2,000 a year. For the last several years Miss Hauser has been connected with the National Woman's Suffrage association at its headquarters at Warren, O.

Clarence Dickinson of Chicago, where he has long been prominent in musical circles, has been called to New York to be organist and director of music in the Brick Presbyterian church and conductor of the Mendelssohn Glee club. The latter position was formerly held by Frank Damrosch.

Miss Lucy Burns, who was arrested for taking part in the suffragette meeting in London June 29, is a Vassar graduate and a student of modern languages at the University of Bonn. Miss Alice Paul, who was among those taken in charge by the London police is also an American woman and holds the degree of master of arts.

State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman of New Jersey, who is now abroad, is one of the best known and most enthusiastic collectors of postage stamps in this country. So large is his collection that he has set apart one room in his home in Plainfield as a stamp room, in which are some of the rarest stamps so dear to the heart of the philatelist.

The new German exchange professor in Columbia university is Dr. Karl Runge of Göttingen, Germany. Professor Runge's first original work was in pure mathematics, and he early obtained a high position among German mathematicians. Of later years his interest has been more largely in applied mathematics. He has, for instance, made important investigations in spectrum analysis and in astronomical and nautical researches.

Prof. Frances Squire Potter of the Minnesota state university, was recently chosen to the corresponding secretary of the National Woman's Suffrage association, to fill the place vacated by Miss Gordon of New Orleans. Professor Potter is a native of Elmira, N. Y., and at present occupies the chair of English literature at the university of Minnesota. She will move to New York in time for the new suffrage headquarters in the fall.

OWES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vienna, W. Va. — "I feel that I owe the last ten years of my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Eleven years ago I was a walking shadow. I had been under the doctor's care but got no relief. My husband persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it worked like a charm. It relieved all my pains and misery. I advise all suffering women to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. EMMA WHEATON, Vienna, W. Va.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any similar medicine in the country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every such suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free and always helpful.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS.

DANIELSON

Personal Mention—Petrossi of Hartford Awarded Contract for New Extensions—Other Matters.

Bernard Hatchford of Boston is visiting in town.

Thomas Kelly of Providence is the guest of friends for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Larkin are entertaining Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards of New York.

Philip Maynard, Jr., of Apponaug was in Danielson Thursday on business.

Visiting at the home of John Ames on Thursday were Mrs. Grace Drew and several of Providence.

Among the guests being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Burrows at their Oakland Beach cottage are Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Perkins and Miss Eva Stephens.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Laque are spending two weeks at the Maynard cottage, Oakland Beach.

The former pastor of the Baptist church, Rev. Joseph Twomey accompanied by Mrs. M. J. Twomey spent Tuesday with friends in town.

Phillip S. Menard, the contractor, is superintending the erection of a large building at the corner of Carington avenue and Welles street, Woonsocket, R. I.

Petrossi Gets Contract.

The warden and court of burgesses have let the contract for the construction of the sewer extensions, voted at the special borough meeting of Tuesday last, to the Petrossi company of Hartford. Construction will begin within a short time. It is estimated that between fifty and sixty working days will be necessary to complete the work. Mr. Petrossi, who will have charge of the construction work, built the first section of sewers in Danielson as foreman for the New England Paving company.

Annual Picnic at Old Furnace.

The annual picnic and Rhode Island clambake at the Old Furnace Thursday was attended by an unusually large number of people, all arriving in time to partake of one of the best dinners ever served by George W. Jacques of East Killingly.

Jailer Fields Recaptures Another.

Joseph Conourough, who recently escaped from the Windham county jail, was captured Wednesday after an exciting chase by Jailer Albert Fields at the schoolhouse on the Green Hollow road. Conourough was serving a sentence of 300 days for beating his mother, who resides in Putnam. The convict is the possessor of a bad reputation and has been wanted by the local police. His disinclination to remain at the retreat in Brooklyn and the attempted escape resulted in an additional 300 days being added to his previous sentence.

Personals.

Frank A. Spaulding was in Boston, Mass., on Thursday.

Mrs. M. E. Bassett is entertaining Mrs. Pannie Toomey and Miss Ella A. Toomey of Norwich for a few days.

Raymond Allen spent Wednesday in Providence, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Billing, who have been the guests of local relatives, have returned to their home in Tarrytown, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew E. Meach returned Thursday from a trip to places of interest in Maine.

William E. Keach and family, Mrs. C. D. Stone and daughter, who have been camping at Alexander's Lake for several weeks, have returned to their home in East Brooklyn.

WINNING A FARM.

The Modest Girl Who Drew a Lucky Number.

"No, I don't think I shall bury myself on a farm for five years," said Miss Gertrude M. Wippl, the stenographer of the North American Accident Insurance company, in the Central building, who drew number 1823 in the "Coeur d'Alene" land opening. "I never thought I'd draw a number. A bunch of us were passing through there on our vacation and we thought we'd take a chance. Yet I don't know how I can tell—and I may decide to hike for the country some day—no, not yet, little old Seattle is good enough for me. I have been a stenographer for almost four years, mostly with the Big Four railroad, and all I know about farming is that potatoes grow somewhere on a vine, do they? I was born in Cincinnati twenty short years ago and was reared there with my father and four sisters. I'm the ninth one, the baby of the family. Yes, I'm all alone in Seattle, thousands of miles away from home and mother. But I'm very independent—I have a loving disposition—it's the fault of my temperament. Brunettes are always bold and capable of taking care of themselves. I'm a brunette. I should say by way of parenthesis. I don't want anything said about me. Please keep my name out of the paper and my picture—no, I can't permit that. Well, if all right—I'll let them take my picture." and Miss Wippl took a last pat at her hair and sat for the photographer.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Less to Laugh At.

Those who insist that the American sense of humor is on the decline should remember that there is rather less to laugh at than usual just now.—Providence Tribune.

Encouraging the Imagination.

English naval officers want the limit of drink per day raised. Then every flock of mosquitoes will look like a squadron of German warships.—Washington Times.

Attorney J. F. Carpenter appeared for Brousseau and the case was continued until Sept. 13th. The bond, which was placed at $100, was furnished by Richard Gorman.

Mrs. M. H. Medbury, manager of the local telephone exchange, is spending a vacation at Boothbay Harbor.

Kennedy-Ledgard Marriage Announced.

Word has been received of the marriage of Nathan Waldo Kennedy, former editor and proprietor of the Windham County Observer, and Miss Beatrice Evelyn Ledgard of Leeds, Eng.

The bride is a daughter of H. J. Ledgard, a mill owner in Leeds, and has held a responsible position with the J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia.

POMONA FIELD MEETING.

State Master Healey Entertained Quinebaug Grangers—Fine Programme.

Quinebaug Pomona grange held its annual field meeting and picnic Thursday at the home of State Master L. H. Healey, Echo farm, North Woodstock. There were about three hundred present, and it was one of the best field days this grange has ever held.

State Master L. H. Healey delivered the address of welcome, which was responded to by W. H. Barron, master of Quinebaug Pomona. He was followed by C. M. Gardner, lecturer of the Massachusetts State grange, on "Power to Do Things," speaking of it from a social and also from a beneficial standpoint.

Mrs. C. R. F. Ladd of Sturbridge, Mass., past Ceres of the national grange, spoke on "The Home and Its Responsibilities and Duties. F. H. Stadtmueller of Elmwood, Conn., president of the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' association, talked interestingly on Sheep Raising in Eastern Connecticut, emphasizing the need of fencing and the injuries done by dogs. O. S. Wood of Killington, chaplain of the national grange, spoke of the grange work and its influence for good in the country.

State Lecturer J. H. Putnam of Litchfield spoke of the George Junior Republic. Music was furnished during the afternoon by Miss E. Inez Litchfield and a male quartette from Storrs.

Other speakers of the afternoon were Past Master Ladd of Massachusetts on Good Roads, B. A. Peck of New Britain on The Development of the Grange, and Brother Barnes of New London County Pomona on The Value of the Grange.

C. T. A. U. Convention.

Committees and members alike are working on the closing plans and minor details in readiness for the C. T. A. U. state convention to be held in this city Sept. 6 and 7. State Secretary W. J. Cronin of New Haven, who is in the city recently and said he expected one of the largest gatherings ever held in the state. Headquarters during the convention will be at Hotel Chickering, which will entertain about 150 guests. The other hotels in the city are also being engaged in readiness for a large delegation.

The young men are more and more encouraged with the work of the grange. Details are cleared away and future that this will be the best convention in the history of the organization. Brilliant speakers from over the state have accepted the invitations extended to them and will be present. The rally in Bradley theater on the evening of Sept. 5 will be a stirring opening to the convention.

Business men about the city are asked to decorate in honor of the convention and it is hoped that all will at least display flags.

New Purchaser Will Move House.

Mrs. Anna M. Prentice has purchased the house recently owned by E. T. Whitmore, situated at 10 Bullock street, and is to move in across Bullock street and place it between the large house on the corner of Elm and Bullock streets and the John A. Dady corporation silk mill. The cellar is nearly completed.

The Price of Genius.

To be a pioneer in thought is to stand alone with nature, not for a few minutes, but for life. The isolation of the few great minds of each generation of men is utterly undreamed of, for want of understanding by those about them. Yet think what it is to pass one's days in a thought-world where the thinker roams alone; to grapple with problems the very terms of which are beyond ordinary comprehension, and the solution appreciated only in lonely ecstasy, after still lonelier despair, the revelation that comes with months and more of pondering. When some one asked Newton how he came to make his wonderful discoveries, he replied: "Simply by always thinking about them." Consider Kepler tolling year after year fruitlessly for some ratio that would link the planet's motions by a general law, calculating assiduously and putting hypothesis after hypothesis aside as he found it would not work, until at last, after almost inconceivable toil he hit upon the one that would. As if this loneliness by nature were not enough, it must needs be accentuated by man. For he rises in such cases in chorus to condemn. Consider Darwin, in patient study, testing the working out of natural selection and adding fact to fact, only to have the whole denounced as ridiculously absurd. Think you the denunciations of the master while living are wholly compensated by the plaudits after he is dead? Loneliness of greatness is the price men make the genius pay for posthumous renown.—Perceval Lowell in the Atlantic.

Having a Bully Time.

Mr. Fairbanks found the litchestrating out in Japan and the buttermilk jubbrimming.—Chicago News.
